

September 23, 2008

To Whom It May Concern:

Over the past seven years, my wife and I have had the privilege of observing and participating in the learning experiences of our granddaughter, Kaylee, at the Paint Branch Montessori School.

Kaylee started at Paint Branch when she was three years old. Our family chose Paint Branch because of its outstanding academic reputations and committed teaching staff, as well as its inviting surroundings.

From the very beginning, we realized we had made a wise decision.

Kaylee has embraced the school, its students, teachers and staff as part of an extended family. She constantly strives to improve her work, both to prove to herself that she can do it, but also to increase her self-confidence that she can do even more.

Paint Branch has constantly challenged her and her classmates to excel in whatever they are given to do. The outstanding work demonstrated at the annual science fairs, talent shows, and art exhibits demonstrate the wide variety of projects the students participate in.

The staff of the school consistently puts their students' progress as their #1 priority. As an example, after an early morning (before school had started) fire in the church educational wing several years ago, immediate arrangements were made to continue the students' daily class schedules without disruption. The staff is dedicated to drawing out the very best from each and every student in the school.

When compared with the disruptive, disrespectful, and sometimes antagonistic environments we continue to hear about in many of the local schools, Paint Branch has consistently provided an orderly, respectful, supportive environment for its students.

We would, without hesitation, recommend Paint Branch Montessori School to any family that is seeking a nurturing academic environment for their children.

John and Sandy Romagna